Groundhog

D            A                            D                            A            D

One old woman was the mother of us all Groundhog
 We eat whistle pig all that we could hold
 Up come Grace with a snigger and a grin

D            E                            D                            E            D

One old woman was the mother of us all Groundhog
 We eat whistle pig all that we could hold
 Up come Grace with a snigger and a grin

D    A    D            A            D

Fed us whistle pigs as soon as we could crawl Groundhog Groundhog
 'Til there was none left in the bowl
 Ground hog gravy all over her chin

This song is not to be confused with the Groundhog Day celebration and Punsutawney Phil, our favorite groundhog on February 2nd. The Groundhog Day celebration is rooted in a Celtic tradition that says if a hibernating animal casts a shadow on February 2, which is the Pagan holiday of Imbolc, winter will last another six weeks. If no shadow was seen, legend says spring would come early.
